NORTH CHARLEROI CHILD IS VICTIM OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Young Son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Gee the Victim

QUARANTINE IS ESTABLISHED

Child Has Been Sick Several Days But Physician Not Called Until Tuesday—Dr. Wood, Confirms Diagnosis

Joseph Gee, the five months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Gee, of North Charleroi is a victim of the dreaded infantile paralysis, according to diagnosis made by Dr. H. J. Repman, of Charleroi and Dr. C. B. Wood, county medical official.

The Gee child has been sick for several days but a physician was not called until Tuesday afternoon. After studying the case Dr. Repman reported it to Dr. Wood who immediately came to North Charleroi and made an investigation, confirming the diagnosis of Dr. Repman.

The health board of North Charleroi was notified and quarantine established at the Gee home, in an effort to prevent the further spread of the disease. The case has also been reported to the state health department

This is the second case of this dreaded disease to develop in the Charleroi district and the health authorities are working diligently to prevent the further spread.

WOMEN PHYSICIAN TO COMBAT PARALYSIS

As a part of their campaign to combat infantile paralysis throughout the state, women physicians identified with the suffrage organization collaborating have issued a list of precautions in various languages. To prevent infant diseases, the suffrage physicians say it is necessary to observe the following rules during hot weather.

Clean bodies, clean finger nails, clean clothes, clean houses, clean yards, clean food, clean water and clean milk.

Finger nails short and clean. Cut every second day. Dirty finger nails are the greatest source of sickness—even greater than dirty milk. Cut finger nails—do not bite them.

Two tepid baths a day for children of all sizes and ages.

Little clothing. A cotton shirt—sleeveless—diaper and very thin dress No shoes and stockings on bands. Guard the baby from sudden changes in the weather. When it becomes suddenly cold put on stockings and an extra shirt. Keep the hair short.

Plenty of sleep. Out of door sleeping is excellent. Afternoon nap for the growing children.

Babies should be left alone as much as possible—not handled or carried about.

Screen houses and porches against flies and mosquitoes.

Keep children out of the hot sun. Do not take them shopping.

Do not let the baby sleep on a pillow. It is too hot.

Plenty of good food. Under three years of age no raw fruit, melons, ice cream, ice cream soda and candy. Children of no age tea or coffee, not even a taste. Plenty of good milk and plenty of good drinking water. Keep milk cold and sweet.

A sick child should be kept apart from others until the doctor has called.

Castor oil is a good cure all.

WADES IN RIVER TO AMUSE CHILDREN—LOSES LIFE

Daniel Knight, aged 25 years, a former of Luzerne township was drowned at the bathing beach at Lock No. 3 Monday afternoon The body was recovered one and one-half hours later.

Knight, in company with others were walking along the railroad tracks when they noticed children wading at the beach. He left his companions and went down to the water and started wading to amuse the children. It is said that he had been drinking and this seemed to add to his courage as he ventured farther out in the stream than he should. When he struck an offset he was unable to aid himself and drowned.

MONONGAHELA DOGS MUST WEAR MUZZLES

Owners Are Given Final Warning That All Unchained and Un-Muzzled Dogs Will be Shot.

Owners of dogs of Monongahela are given final warning that all unclaimed and unmuzzled animals of the dog kind will be shot after Wednesday. It does not necessarily mean that a dog must be both chained and muzzled but they must be either of the two.

Officers have been instructed to kill all dogs not chained or muzzled after Wednesday and all canines must be chained or muzzled for a period of thirty days unless other orders are issued. Mayor McVicker states he will enforce the ordinance and will show no favorites. It is the law and he intends to enforce it, especially with such a dangerous situation as abides at the present. It does not matter if the dog has a license, the ordinance says that all must be muzzled when signs of hydrophobia are shown.

WATCH IN POSSESSION OF BOY IDENTIFIED

Taken From Millinery Store of Mrs. Evans on McKean Avenue About a Week Ago—Has Been Returned

Investigations have revealed the fact that the watch found in the possession of Stanley Sylvanski, the Monessen youth, who had been missing from his home for about two weeks, and later found at Belle Vernon, belonged to Miss Golda Evans, of Charleroi. The watch had been removed from the millinery store of Mrs. Evans about a week ago. Preparations were being made for a vacation and the purse containing the watch had been left in the store while the Evans family were packing a trunk. The Evans family reside over the store and had gone up stairs for a few moments on Saturday afternoon. While up stairs the bell on the money drawer was heard to ring but upon going to the store, no person, other than a boy running up McKean avenue was in evidence. Later in the evening the watch was missed. Upon learning that a watch had been found in the possession of the Sylvanski boy, the police were notified and investigation made. The watch was secured and identified by Mrs. Evans as the one taken from the store. It is not known whether the Sylvanski boy took the watch or purchased it at the Speers bathing beach as told by him. Further investigations will be made by the police.

At this meeting the Commandery also took action regarding their annual picnic. It was decided that this picnic would be postponed on account of children under 16 years of age not being permitted to attend. It was thought by those in attendance that it would be to the best interest of all to hold this picnic later in the season.

WASHINGTON FAIR OPENED YESTERDAY

Style Show Tent, Farm Machinery Displays and Exhibition Hall Attraction Centers, With Splendid Exhibits

Tuesday proved almost perfect for the opening of the Washington fair at Arden and a fair-sized crowd was on the grounds, making a preliminary survey of the livestock, the exhibition hall displays, the midway, "Dutch" Thompson's aeroplane and staying over for the races.

It was an ideal day for the racing game, the mercury stopping just short of the uncomfortable stage and the track, although a trifle slow, was rounding into shape nicely and should be in first class order for today. The grounds were in splendid condition Tuesday and all exhibits were in place.

The style show tent and exhibition hall are two chief centers of attraction just inside the gateway. The merchants' displays and the live models in the style show tent make it an exhibition really worth while. Exhibition hall, as usual, is filled with interesting displays of feminine handicraft, farm products and merchants' wares.

Owing to an order of Dr. Dixon closing all schools in the state of Pennsylvania until September 18, California State Normal will be unable to begin until that time. 62tf

CROWDED AUDITORIUM GREETS DR. EDWARD HOWARD GRIGGS

First and Only Evening Session of Institute Held Last Night

TALK IS ENJOYED BY ALL

Talk by W. D. Lewis in Morning and Afternoon Instructive—Solos Tendered by Walter Vaughan Appreciated by All

A large crowd filled the high school auditorium at the first and only evening session of the Tri District Teachers Institute Tuesday. Dr. Edward Howard Griggs of New York City was the speaker of the evening, he lectured on the subject of "The World War and Ethics," which deals with the revision of ethical standards compelled by the present war. He maintained that it was the duty of the United States in international relations, on the basis of our ideals of democracy, to lead the world in establishing an international court of justice. The judgements of this court should be enforced by an international military and naval police, contributed by a federation of nations. He claims that the relations of nations are still on a plain frontier life and not on individuals. Claim jumping is still practiced and accepted and since this is the case, the first condition for America standing for her ideals is her readiness and willingness for self defense. The lecture ended with a strong plea for establishing a strong system of national self defense. The high school orchestra under the direction of Prof. I. T. Daniel played for the opening number, "Overture, "Autumn Flowers" and closed the evenings program with a march, "Fire and Flame." Walter Vaughan of New York City was the soloist of the evening. For his first number he sang "Invictus" and "Mammy's Song" he was heavily applauded and gave an encore, "Lonely." His second number was "The Sunshine of Your Smile" which was encored with "Little Grey Home in the West." Vaughan sang exceptionally well and his numbers were greatly appreciated. Miss Bethel Bowman was his accompanist.

The Tuesday afternoon session of the institute was well attended and excellent addresses were given. Charleroi had the largest number in attendance, Donora was second and Monongahela was third. W. D. Lewis lectured on the subject of "Democratic Education in the High School" which was a continuation of the address delivered at the Tuesday morning session which was "Education in a Democracy." Mr. Lewis is a very prominent lecturer and his topics for the institute here are among some of his best lectures. Yesterdays talks were exceptionally good. He definitely explained how essential the Democratic Education was in the High school. Walter Vaughan followed this address by rendering a double selection which was encored. This was Vaughan's first appearance at the Institute and his renditions were sung in splendid voice. Mr. Griggs lectured on the subject of "Work and Play in Education." In this he emphasized the seriousness and importance of securing an education. A conference was then held for

THOUGHT BOY DIED FROM HEART FAILURE

Seized, it is believed with heart failure while in swimming at the new bathing beach at Coal Centre Shrader Farnsworth, aged 12 of Buckhannon, W. Va., died Tuesday afternoon on the eve of returning to his home after a week's visit here.

His mother, Mrs. Altha Farnsworth who as visiting there with him, is prostrated by the unfortunate incident. This was the first death at the Coal Centre bathing beach, which was established just this summer.

DATES THAT VOTERS SHOULD BEAR IN MIND

It is time to call the attention of voters to a few important dates which bear on the fall election when the people will vote for president, United States senator, congressman, state senator, members of assembly, etc. Every citizen must be registered this fall or he cannot vote at the election in November. Registrations of last spring or last fall have no bearing on the coming election. Here are some of the important dates to remember. The last day on which you may be assessed will be Wednesday, September 6. This is particularly directed to voters who were not assessed last year because of non-residence or because they were not of voting age. You must be assessed in order to be registered unless you register on a 1915 tax receipt. The first day for registration will be Thursday, September 7. The other days will be Tuesday, September 19, and Saturday October 7. The last day on which to pay taxes to qualify for registration will be on October 7. In the boroughs and country districts of the county the assessors will be at the polling places on September 12 and 13 to correct their voting lists.

BUSINESS AND POLITICS

If the Democratic administration had shown the same degree of efficiency in other affairs that it has shown in the extension and development of the postoffice department, it would now have much stronger arguments on which to base a hope for success in the present national campaign. Democratic editors show great pride in presenting to their readers the fact that a surplus of six million dollars from the earnings of the postoffice department has been turned into the national treasury. Attention is called by them to the fact that only three times since 1836 has there been a surplus turned over to the treasury from the postoffice, all of these being in the Wilson administration.

What's the explanation? Simply business—giving the people what they want. The Democratic administration came into power just when the people were demanding and ready to receive the postal savings and the parcel post. The parcel post has been a gigantic revenue getter. It's further extension and development will show even larger returns in the future, unless the rates are much reduced, no matter what political party is in power, for the revenues of the government from this source have been largely built up at the expense of the express companies and other carriers, who doubtless charged more than they should.

This Democratic surplus demonstrates that the postal department can be made even much more efficient than at present and thereby be made to give the people even greater service for a much smaller cost than is now paid. Politics should not be permitted to impair the service of the department, which belongs to all the people of the nation.

The advent of the automobile as a delivery vehicle and other means of rapid conveyance increased the delivery of parcels in three years by 17,500,000, the records show. The number of postal savings deposits has increased from 310,000 to 616,000 and the amounts from $30,000,000 to $90,000,000. These are things for which the Democratic administration has no right to claim exclusive credit as a political party achievement. The postal service is the people's great carrier system and the time should be hastened when its direction would be so efficient that there would not be the slightest element of political manipulation in its management.

WHAT IS IT AFRAID OF?

Guardsmen on the border are prohibited from writing to friends at home who are anyway connected with a newspaper. It matters not who this friend should be, but the guardsman knows that if he writes he is liable to get into serious trouble. Orders have been issued putting a muzzle on the soldiers for fear what they write might become available to the public through the newspapers.

One does not have to seek far for the reason for such orders. It is feared at Washington that the facts will come out, that the public will learn the truth and that the effect will be distinctly unfavorable to those directing affairs.

But knowledge that facts are being concealed is all the public needs in order to make it eager to learn the facts. The truth will come out. The people cannot be kept in ignorance. They will find out what's going on and it must be learned from private and irresponsible sources the information will often be distorted in circulation.

In this case as in every other only the guilty need fear the truth. Of what is the administration guilty that it seeks so suddenly TAOI..NNUN it seeks so sedulously to hide the facts?

That proposition to teach children voice culture will win supporters if it contemplates beginning at the midnight squally age.

In some parts of the country prosperity is so prevalent that the man who doesn't own a motor car is painfully conspicuous.

The doctrine that it is more blessed to give than to receive is never disputed but the receivers never groan as much as the givers do.

One thing pleasant about the submarine passenger transatlantic ocean liner is the fact that it has no swimming tank and room for every little caste.

Undersea liners may be safe, but perhaps the scenery and the atmosphere encountered are as motheaten and stale as are those of city subways.

Our idea of a seven nature's is that of a man who would rather sit under a tree of a summer afternoon and eat cold watermelon than play a game of baseball.

But for the very light and trivial nature of their work we suppose the farmers would rear up and raise a mighty racket for a 3-hour day. But farming is fun.

An adviser of mothers says: "Avoid saying a whole lot of 'don'ts' at your children daily." Times must have changed. It was always the "do" volley that made us tired.

The man with a headful of brains is usually too cautious to give his advice offhand. It is the lazy man who has the time and the tendency to pull the trigger of his conversation gash to see if it is loaded.

One of the leading teachers in the New York university says it is a waste of time to study the Constitution of the United States. We never suspected that many persons were wasting their time in that direction.

FREAK BASEBALL PLAYS.

A Tin Can Throw and the Shortest Two Bagger on Record.

Freak plays make baseball humorous if not interesting. Some of these plays are said to be the result of quick thinking, but as a matter of fact most of them are simply luck, says Arthur Macdonald in the Physical Education Review. Curious things happen. A ball fell into a tin can, and, it being impossible to get it out in time, can and all were thrown to the baseman.

Another ball hit the end of a nail driven through the opposite side of a fence and could not be got down until all the runners scored.

A swift hit glances off the pitcher's hand, is snapped up by an infielder and thrown to first, putting the man out.

Rolling liners or grounders sometimes hit the first or third base bag and glance away for singles or even two baggers.

The shortest two bagger known was when the ball grazed the bat, shot up a few feet and fell in front of the plate. As the catcher reached for the whirling ball it glanced from his glove and bounded back to the stand, and the batter made second easily.

A center fielder saw a mitt in the way of the shortstop and walked about sixty feet in to move it out of the way, when he heard the crack of the bat and saw a hot ball coming straight at him.

He could do nothing but try to catch it and did, to his surprise. But he was given credit by the crowd for being a great student of batters.

THE VOICE AND THE STAGE.

Being a Good Elocutionist Does Not Make a Good Actor.

Of all the things to eschew, elocution schools stand first. Actors should know nothing of the rules of elocution as taught in any school of which I have ever heard. I can always tell at the first glance whether an actor is a student of elocution. No good elocutionist was ever a good actor. That is, no good reciter—and elocution schools produce only reciters—is ever a good actor.

Reciting and acting are two entirely different arts. The reciter is never natural, never can be. Awhile ago one of the most distinguished professors of elocution in America—he had the chair of elocution at one of our biggest universities—came to be an actor. It was thought that he would be something wonderful because of his knowledge and gift of elocution. He went back to teaching. He could do that better than most, but his acting was bad. All the rules of elocution an actor ever needs can be obtained in singing lessons.

Now, proper enunciation of words is a different matter. An actor should not have to be taught that, but if he does need it it is a pretty bad need, and he should never rest until he has lost all slovenly habits. Some of my friends think I am too severe on this point. I am not. One cannot be too severe. It is clean cut work, perfect in its smallest details, that makes for perfect illusion on the stage, and I am always for such work.—Henrietta Crosman in Century.

A Tragic Wedding Ring.

A tragic story of a forgotten wedding ring is told in the "Lives of the Lindsays." He should have been at church when Colin Lindsay, the young Earl of Balcarras, was quietly eating his breakfast in nightgown and slippers. Reminded that Mauritia of Nassau was waiting for him at the altar, he hurried to church, but forgot the ring. A friend present gave him one, which he, without looking at, placed on the bride's finger. After the ceremony was over the countess glanced at her hand and beheld a grinning death's head on her ring. She fainted away, and the omen made such an impression on her that on recovering she declared she was destined to die within a year, a presentment that probably brought about its own fulfillment, for in a few months the careless Colin was a widower.

Both of One Mind.

Mrs. Stormyweather, who had been engaged in a somewhat prolonged and heated dialogue with her husband, beat a dignified retreat so soon as she found she was getting the worst of the argument and turned her attention to culinary matters as a balm for her ruffled soul.

"Jane," she said, "I want you to put on your things at once and go out and see if you can get me a plaice."

"Yes'm," replied Jane, with alacrity. "And while I'm about it I may as well look for one for myself, too, for I'm blest if I can stand the master any more than you."—London Mirror.

Remorse.

A legal journal tells of a trial in which the following remorseful letter appeared in evidence:

"Mr Bidwell: Dear Sir — This is what I never expect to come to. But it is trouble, and no one to help mee out. So I want you to have this young woman Burried. But mee, let me lay top of ground, for the Turkey Buzzards to eat, for I have did rong. Joseph Bradley."

What Landed Him There.

"My good man, what are you in prison for?"

"My convictions."

"Your convictions?"

"Yes, mum. If the jury had acquitted me I wouldn't be here."—Detroit Free Press.

A cruel story runs on wheels, and every hand oils the wheels as they run.—Ouida.

Our Disappearing Frontier Life.

There is still a keen delight in watching the rapid obliteration of frontier life. The frontier town began with a few scattered dwellings on the outskirts and then a single block or two of cheaply built frame structures running parallel with the railroad. In other days the first sign one saw on the frontier, and the largest, was "Saloon." Next in order was "Hotel," then "Restaurant," "Bank" and, if a land boom was on, "Real Estate." Now no frontier town, however small, is without the latest attraction of "moving pictures," and, thanks to the development of good roads and of the automobile industry, the largest sign now supplanting "Saloon" is the word "Garage." In the background may be seen the steeple of a church, but you will always, no matter how small the town may be, see the American flag that flies in front of the American schoolhouse. That flag is always in sight, even when the porch of the church is below the sky line.—Leslie's.

Baring the Feet at Worship.

In India Hindus and Mussulmans alike wear both sandals and shoes (slippers) and the latter boots also, but the invariable rule is to remove them after entering a private house just when stepping on to the mat or carpet on which the visitor takes his seat. They must be cast off, the right boot or shoe first, before the worshiper enters a temple or mosque, and it is still regarded as an absolute profanation to attempt to enter either fully shod. But the domestic habit arose out of its obvious propriety, and the religious ritual of "the shoes of the faithful," now and for centuries past observed throughout Islam, can be demonstrated to have been dictated by, if indeed it be not derived directly from, the universal social etiquette of the east.

Charleroi People Give Credit Where Credit is Due.

People of Charleroi who suffer with weak kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. Doan's Kidney Pills is a medicine for the kidneys only and one that is backed by willing testimony of Charleroi people. Here's a case:

Mrs. Fred Jackson, 207 Prospect Avenue, Charleroi, says: "I was troubled by a constant backache. If I did a little extra work the pain in my back was intense. I didn't rest well at night and got up in the morning lame and stiff. If I stopped, sharp pains caught me and I could hardly straighten up. I also had rheumatic pains in my back and arms. I couldn't do any sweeping. Dizzy spells and hot flashes bothered me terribly. As Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in he family, I got a box at Piper Bros., Drug Store and began taking them. One box practically cured me."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS FROM SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE OF CHARLES E. HUGHES.

It is apparent that we are shockingly unprepared.

When we contemplate industrial and commercial conditions, we see that we are living in a fool paradise.

Not only have we a host of resources short of war by which to enforce our just demands, but we shall never promote our peace by being stronger in words than in deeds.

We are neither deceived nor benumbed by abnormal conditions. We know that we are in a critical period, perhaps more critical than any period since the civil war.

The administration utterly failed to perform its obvious duty to secure protection for the lives and property of our citizens. It is most unworthy to slur those who have investments in Mexico in order to escape a condemnation for the nonperformance of this duty.

It is only through international co-operation giving a reasonable assurance of peace that we may hope for the limitation of armaments.

We have determined to cut out, root and branch, monopolistic practices, but we can do this without hobbling enterprise or narrowing the scope of legitimate achievement.

We demand a simple, business-like budget.

I believe it is only through a responsible budget, proposed by the executive, that we shall avoid financial waste.

We have had brave words in a series of notes, but, despite our protests, the lives of Americans have been destroyed.

WILSON FLEXIBILITY.

We do not see why there should have been any stir in the senate over the discovery that President Wilson has completely reversed himself in the matter of the proposed child labor law. Senator Borah was able to show that Mr. Wilson described this legislation in his "Constitutional Government" as unconstitutional, an "obviously absurd extravagance," carrying the congressional power to regulate commerce beyond the "utmost boundaries of reasonable and honest inference" and making it possible, if sustained, for congress to legislate over "every particular of the industrial organization and action of the country." That, we must confess, has also been the Evening Post's view. But the Evening Post and Senator Borah are old fogies, dating back to the time when it was the custom to have fixed beliefs and principles and stick to them. The senator has evidently not read Mr. Wilson's letter in explaining his change of front on the tariff commission—that it is only a narrow man, whose mind is stupidly closed to new ideas, who does not alter his opinions. By this test Mr. Wilson is obviously one of the broadest minded men this country has ever produced, for he has changed his mind to date on the initiative, referendum, recall, woman suffrage, the tariff commission, tariff for revenue only, a permanent diplomatic service beyond politics, the merit system in the civil service, the proper place of Tammany Hall in the scheme of the universe, child labor legislation, preparedness, Bryan, a continental army—but why continue? It is a long enough list to prove that Mr. Wilson's political views are not fossilized by any fear of inconsistency.—New York Evening Post.

ADEQUATE NATIONAL DEFENSE DEMANDED

We demand adequate national defense; adequate protection on both our western and eastern coasts. We demand thoroughness and efficiency in both arms of the service. It seems to be plain that our regular army is too small. We are too great a country to require of our citizens who are engaged in peaceful vocations the sort of military service to which they are now called. As well insist that our citizens in this metropolis be summoned to put out fires and police the streets. We do not count it inconsistent with our liberties, or with our democratic ideals, to have an adequate police force. With a population of nearly 100,000,000 we need to be surer of ourselves than to become alarmed at the prospect of having a regular army which can reasonably protect our border, and perform such other military service as may be required, in the absence of a grave emergency. I believe, further, that there should be not only a reasonable increase in the regular army, but that the first citizen reserve subject to call should be enlisted as a federal army and trained under federal authority.—From Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

HOW MRS. BEAN MET THE CRISIS

Carried Safely Through Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Nashville, Tenn.—"When I was going through the Change of Life I had a tumor as large as a child's head. The doctor said it was three years coming and gave me medicine for it until I was called away from the city for some time. Of course I could not go to him then, so my sister-in-law told me that she thought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure it. It helped both the Change of Life and the tumor and when I got home I did not need the doctor. I took the Pinkham remedies until the tumor was gone, the doctor said, and I have not felt it since. I tell every one how I was cured. If this letter will help others you are welcome to use it." —Mrs. E. H. Bean, 523 Joseph Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a pure remedy containing the extractive properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, meets the needs of women's system at this critical period of her life. Try it.

She could not sleep and lost her appetite. We had tried different powders without benefit. Finally we tried Sykes' Comfort Powder, using it freely and she was soon entirely well again, and her skin healthy and entirely free from all irritation." — Mrs. H. Brown, Auburn, N. Y.

BOLD CAR THIEVES

Tricks of the Clever Crooks That Steal Automobiles.

DARING IN THEIR METHODS.

One of Their Pet Schemes Is to Disguise Themselves as Repairers and Openly Tow the Car Away—Ordinary Safeguards Are a Joke to Them.

The man who steals an automobile is one of the cleverest mechanicians in the country. He knows every make of car from the steering wheel to the tires, and there is scarcely any precaution taken by the owner of the car to safeguard his property that the automobile thief cannot beat.

Some car owners fondly imagine that when they chain the wheel of their car with a fairly thick steel chain they have made it impossible for any crook to move the auto from its anchorage. The simplicity of this safeguard must cause hearty among the motorcar crooks, for the ordinary steel chain can be cut in a second with the appliances that the motor thieves carry in their outfit.

But most car owners consider they have made the car immovable by merely locking the switch box. It will interest them to know that the car thieves can beat this precaution very easily. The clever mechanician who makes a business of stealing cars can cross wires so as to cause ignition and move the engine without bothering with the switch box at all. A method that is kindergarten to the car thief is to connect wires from the dry cell battery direct to the ignition coil, thus starting the motor without difficulty.

Some cars have devices by which the gasoline supply can be locked, and this is regarded by some owners as placing a hopeless barrier in the way of the thief who would run off with the standing car. For how can a car be moved when the supply of gasoline is shut off? Nothing easier. The motorcar thief carries with him his own supply of gasoline in a flask. With this gasoline the automobile thief can negotiate a good run with the car by connecting his flask of gasoline direct to the carburetor. Feeding the gasoline to the carburetor through a rubber hose, the automobile thief can send the car sufficiently far to enable him to put the gasoline tank and the car in regular commission and speed where he will to safety and a sale.

But the commonest and therefore the safest trick of the automobile thief requires no expert mechanical knowledge. It simply requires nerve, which these thieves possess to an unusual degree. This trick is the old one of driving up in an auto that looks like a garage repair wagon, hitching a rope to the car that is to be stolen and towing it away. The thieves dress for the part in oil soaked overalls. When they have selected the car to be stolen, picking one that is in a side street and not likely to be under the eye of a policeman who may have been tipped to watch the car, the thieves come up to the scene in their old car, looking like the ordinary crew sent for from the garage to repair a car that is in trouble or isn't working as well as its fastidious owner would wish.

They alight from their own car and make a great pretense of examining the car that they intend to spirit away. They remove the hood and scrutinize the motor. They get out a kit of tools and tinker for awhile with some part of the machinery. If any one should happen to be watching them or looking on from a neighboring window all the men do has the appearance of natural work by honest workmen from the repair shop. Presently the men hold a consultation, pointing to some part of the motor machinery, and apparently come to the conclusion that the car cannot be started with the tools at their command. Then they hitch a rope to the car and tow it away at the end of their own car. Could anything be more simple?

How can you beat such a game as this? Carrying away part of the machinery does not prevent the thieves from towing the car away. One sure way to prevent robbery is to have the car watched. The policeman on that patrol will keep an eye on it if you are only going to make a visit to some office building and coming back in a short time. But if you keep your car in the street the entire day no one can watch it. You are simply taking a chance with the car thieves.

There are other ways of making the path of the motorcar crook as steep and difficult as possible. One motorist believes he has solved the thief problem by having a slot cut in the clutch pedal shaft. Through this he passes a bar which he locks. So far his car has not been stolen. Another way is to remove the rotor. This makes it very difficult for any thief to steal the car, for he would have to carry a number of rotors to be sure of having one that would fit that particular motor. — Philadelphia North American.

Dry and Moist Air.

A cubic foot of dry air weighs more than a cubic foot of moist air at the same temperature and pressure. The addition of vapor to a cubic foot of dry air enlarges the volume of the mixture if the air is free to expand, as in the atmosphere, and as the vapor has only about two-thirds the density of dry air at the same temperature and pressure the density of the mixture is less than that of dry air.

MOVIES TAKEN WHEN FIRST STAKE WAS DRIVEN

The motion picture camera recorded the driving of the first stake for Uniontown's $100,000 speedway at Topwood Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. C. H. Balsley of Connellsville has been designated the official photographer by those in charge of the speedway enterprise. It is proposed by the promoters of the board track to take motion pictures once a week showing the progress of the construction work and arrangements will be made whereby these films will beshown in every theatre in any town of consequence within a radius of 100 miles of Uniontown, it was announced yesterday.

C. W. Johnson, one of the principal promoters of the speedway, said it will be the first time in the history of board track construction that moving pictures have been taken of the various stages of construction from beginning to completion. The close of the pictures will be the opening race.

ARMY BUGLES.

Fashioned From Sheets of Copper by an Ingenious Process.

From start to finish the making of an army bugle is a process of much ingenuity and interest. A bugle may not at first sight present a striking resemblance to its cousin, the coach horn, but one is practically a curled up version of the other, for before the bugle is bent into shape it consists of a narrow tube fifty-one inches long.

In the first stage of manufacture the bugle is cut out of sheet copper and rolled into two thin cylinders, technically known as the "bell" and the "branch." The narrow tube, which is the "bell," is gradually shaped out on molds until the opening is the regular four inches in diameter. It is then "spun" on a wonderful machine, and an expert workman takes the rough edges off the copper.

Both sections are afterward filled with molten lead preparatory to the bending stage, and it is this solid stuffing which prevents the tube breaking in the process and allows it to keep its shape. The expert workman, with the aid of a formidable lever and hammer, bends the bugle into the familiar shape, the lead being subsequently melted out at a charcoal furnace, after which the instrument is sent off to the polishers.

One of the most intricate parts of the bugle is the mouthpiece, which is made of nickel silver and turned out on a special lathe. With the mouthpiece fixed the instrument is ready for the testing room.—Pearson's Weekly.

BUCK THE LINE HARD.

People Who Do Big Things Do Not Let Themselves Be Held.

It was on the football field at one of the large colleges. A big tackle had been brought over to the varsity field from one of the class elevens. It was his first experience with the big team. He played a fine game until the other side had the ball. Then he did not "break through" as he should. The coach finally stopped the play and went over to him.

"What is the trouble? Why don't you get through?" he said.

"The man opposite me is not playing fair. He is holding me," said the tackle.

"If he holds you again I'll put you off the field!" flashed back the coach.

Of course, as the tackle said, it is against the rules to hold an opponent unless he has the ball, but the coach wanted results and not excuses. His position was that a man ought somehow to break away; that no man must let himself be held. And that is true, no one ought to let himself be held. The excuse may be excellent, but a player who is held is put out of the game as effectively as if he were off the field. He might just as well be off the field. The people who accomplish things worth while in the world are those who will not let themselves be held. There have always been things enough to hold them. They might have found excellent excuses, but they have not had to use any excuses.—Youth's Companion.

Home For a Holiday.

Some men on a home holiday tinker all day long, others bring with them a great many books which they never read, and the result in both cases is that housekeeping becomes a prolonged picking up. All men at home on a vacation eat a great deal more than other men or than at other times, but with the sole exception of the anomalous academic, who is always concerned for his gastronomy, they will eat anything and enjoy it and say so. A man at home for his holiday is always vociferously appreciative. His happiness is almost enough to repay a woman for the noise he makes and the mess, yet statistics could show that during any man's home vacation the women of the house lose just about as many pounds as the man gains. But what are women for, or homes?—April Atlantic.

Moore and "Lalla Rookh."

It was in 1815 that Tom Moore set himself to produce his oriental romance "Lalla Rookh." The poem, says the Pall Mall Gazette, was the subject of one of the most curious agreements ever made between poet and publisher, Longman undertaking to pay Moore 3,000 guineas for an eastern poem and to take it for better or worse at any time that suited the author's convenience and without any power to suggest changes or alterations.

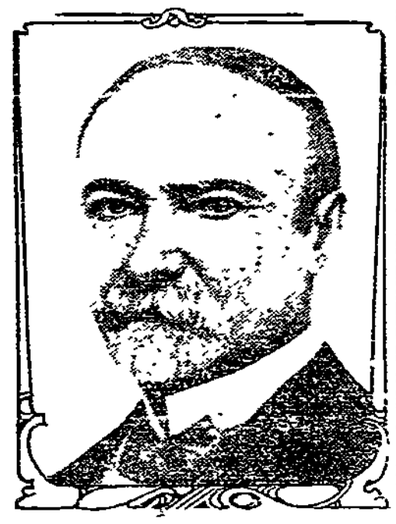
CHARLES EVANS HUGHES.



CHARLES WARREN FAIRBANKS.

Secretary Daniels, however, has the distinction of being one of the greatest arguments the Republicans have ever had.

The salary part of the rural credit system has already begun

Mr Bryan thinks Mr Hughes unfitted for the bench because of the prejudiced frame of mind evinced by his speeches. Wake up, Bill, he ain't running for no judgeship

Mr. Wilson underestimated the suffragists, but it appears they have him sized up properly.

Ill fares the land where public office is bought and the people are sold

The high fragmentation of those Hughes bombs is causing consternation in the Wilson trenches.

Bainbridge Colby is almost as violent in his criticism of Mr. Hughes as he was in condemnation of Mr. Wilson's position on Panama tolls two years ago

Of course President Wilson has a perfect right to change his mind as often as he pleases, but that is quite different from repudiating distinct promises made to get votes. If the pledges on which he rode into the White House have proved worthless because he changed his mind, what faith is to be put in the pledges he is now making in his appeal for re-election?

DETROIT'S IMPRESSIONS OF A MAN.

Governor Hughes' visit to Detroit opened the presidential campaign of 1916, and if we may forecast the events that are to follow by the omens of Monday we would prognosticate an intensely warm, vivid and humanly interesting period in the next few months.

Setting aside the auspices of meteorological conditions in this prevision of the future—although they are approved by numerous professional augurs and by a host of commonalty as well—we base this prophecy on the characteristics of the candidate whose too brief stay with us has been enjoyed by all with whom he came into contact.

The misguided individuals who have been expecting Charles E. Hughes would prove to be a cold proposition and therefore easy to beat are in for a shock that will make them think they have been hit by an uninsulated trolley wire. There is nothing cold about Mr. Hughes, Detroit has learned. He is about as intensely human a piece of humanity as ever captured the hearts of a crowd, and the more people in the United States he meets between now and November the more votes will be cast for him. As a campaigner he is a revelation. He likes his fellow beings, and they like him because they see he likes them.

And what his personality begins his remarkable powers of intellect and utterance finish. He drives his points home with tremendous force. What he says sticks. There are thousands of Americans today who can retell every step in the arguments he made eight years ago on the Bryan trust policy, yet in 1908 Mr. Hughes was not especially a prominent figure and there was no particular reason why his address more than others should have remained clearly in the memory except the gift of the man to send his own thoughts so deep into the brains of others. They are clear in his own mind first, undoubtedly. He knows precisely what he wants to say because he has reasoned it out before he speaks it out. Probably that has something to do with the ease with which he conveys his meaning. But it is a very rare quality he possesses in his ability to master subjects so thoroughly as to make the most abstruse simple to himself and his hearers. It is a quality eminently desirable in a political candidate. It is infinitely more to be desired in the president of a great country like the United States.

Detroit's impression of Charles E. Hughes is all favorable. The thousands of people who have studied him at close range are convinced that if he is elected president next November he will be a great president, one of the greatest this nation has known, worthy to stand in history with George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, a custodian of the republic's fate to whom that fate may confidently be intrusted. If that conviction is shared by the people of other states whom he is still to meet the outcome of his swing around the great American circle cannot fail to be propitious for him.—Detroit Free Press.

Headed In Every Direction.

Mr. Wilson says his mind is progressive, but those who try to follow its progress can never tell the direction it is taking. It is just as likely to be progressing backward as forward.—Hartford Courant.

Women are for Mr. Hughes because the great human values in this country are still to be welded politically into its national life.—Frances A. Kellor.

President Wilson is now anxious to have it thought that there was no withdrawal of troops from Mexico at the request of Carranza. Why not go one better and declare that we never had any troops in Mexico to withdraw?

It was stated that the president would work on his acceptance speech during his week end trip on the May-flower. Among the salt billows there should be some inspiration for ringing sentiments on naval preparedness.

Now that Mr. Hughes knows he has been nominated for president we may wait patiently a few days longer to hear what Mr. Wilson has to say about it.

MR. HUGHES OPPOSED TO FOOLISH GOVERNMENT.

"I have no respect for the idea that because democratic government is a government of the people, by the people and for the people it is a government of the foolish, for the foolish and by the foolish."—From Mr. Hughes' Speech at Chicago

BLOODY PROSPERITY.

No one disputes a temporary prosperity in our land today. But it is sectional in its factory aspect, abnormal in its fevered rush, fictitious in its essentials and perverting in its tendency. Worse; it is the gold sluiced from the river of blood, poured out by the horrifying sacrifice of millions of our fellow men. God forbid that we should boast a prosperity wrought in such waste of human life. We had rather rejoice in the prosperity of peace.—United States Senator Warren G. Harding.

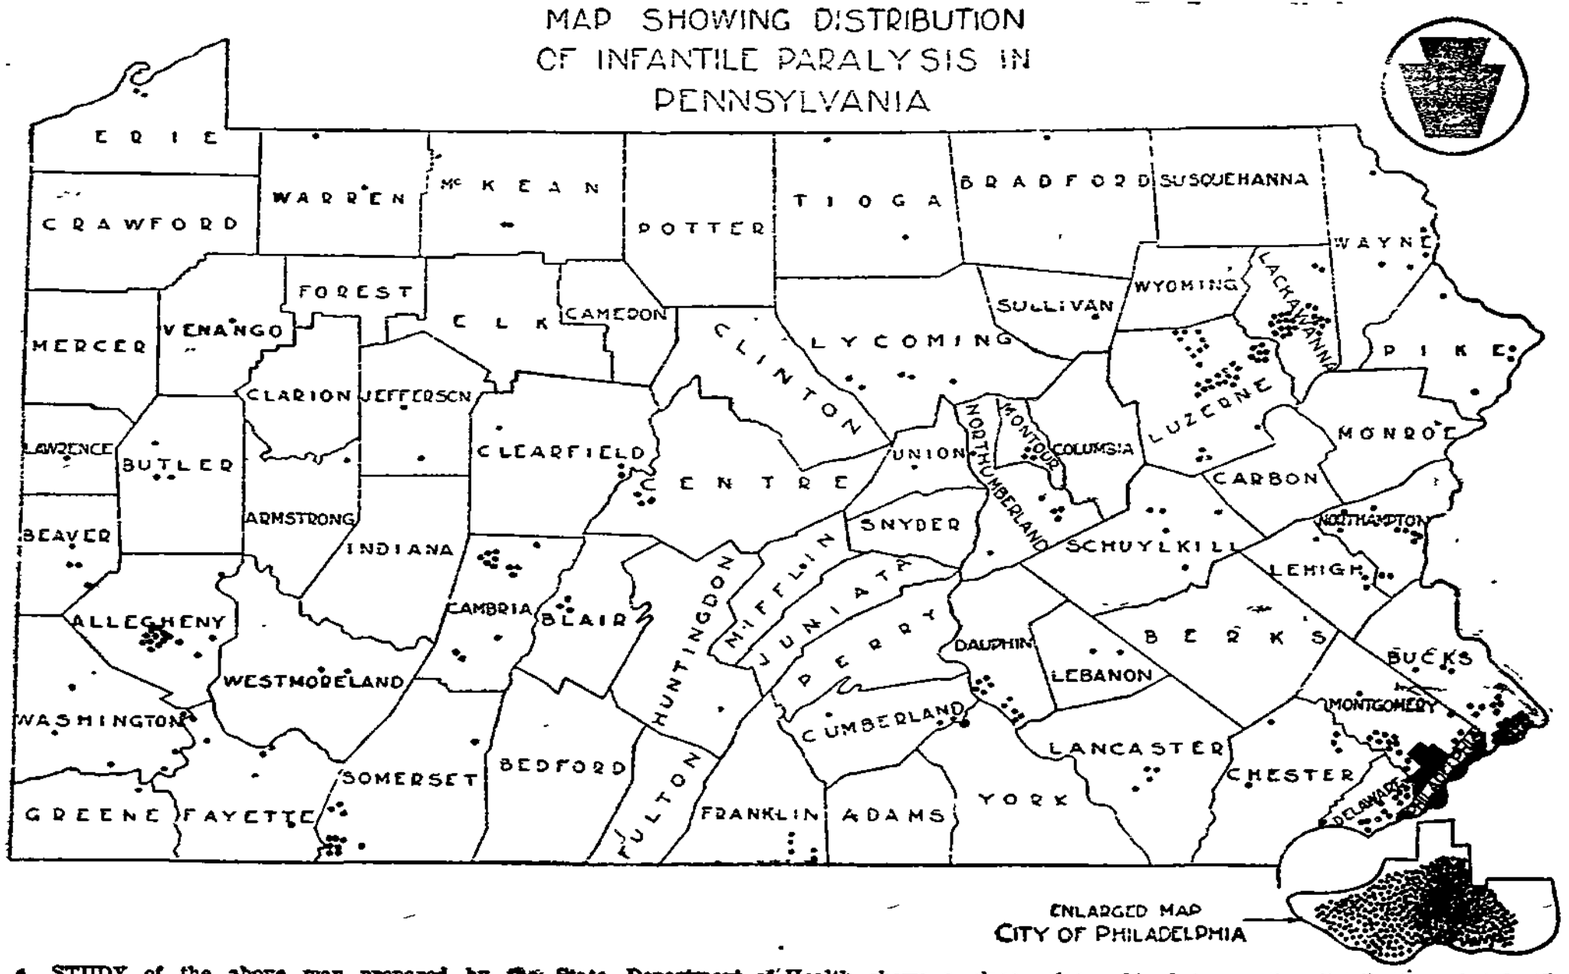
THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY



A STUDY of the above map prepared by the State Department of Health shows a close relationship between the distribution of infantile paralysis in Pennsylvania and the direct lines of travel between this State and New York City, where the epidemic has reached large proportions.

It is evident that those sections of the State which are in close contact through the intercourse of travel have by far the largest number of cases. This demonstrates the necessity for the quarantine which has been ordered to protect the children of the Commonwealth from the unfortunate fate of thousands in neighboring States.

Commissioner of Health Samuel G. Dixon has asked the help of all thinking people in making this quarantine effective.
